In Chapter 21, Jo says of Meg, "She feels it in the air—love, I mean—and she's going very fast. She's got most of the symptoms, is twittery and cross, don't eat, lies awake, and mopes in corners." In the wake of Beth's recent recovery from grave illness, Jo's metaphors about love as a sickness seem more serious than comical.

Summary A body has washed ashore; the method of death is familiar, the black marks of fingers on the neck. Since Victor appears around this same time, several people put him near the scene of a crime even though he had not been present. At least two witnesses saw a large creature deposit the body of Henry Clerval on the beach and leave.
